

Comparative Values in Footwear

WITH the majority of people, price is the chief consideration in purchasing footwear.

That's why there are so many uncomfortable feet in Canada to-day and so many dissatisfied shoe purchasers.

For low-priced shoes cannot be good shoes—the high cost of good materials and skilled labour wont permit.

Then why experiment—at the expense of your comfort—with low-priced shoes? Why not wear and be thoroughly satisfied?

INVICTUS SHOES

Distinctive and pleasing in appearance, they possess that style individuality that is the hallmark of fine footwear. Invictus Shoes will outwear ordinary low priced shoes—yet they cost little more.

AROUND THE TOWN

F. Bullis was a visitor in Calgary on Tuesday.

Dr. Earlywine of Bellingham, Wash., is visiting with Dr. G. R. Ross for a few days.

Mr. J. K. Owen, teller at the Union Bank, is laid up with a severe attack of tonsillitis.

Alf. Smith denies the rumour that was in last week's Pioneer and says that "the boys" "is sont caduc."

Dr. W. A. Norby of Portland, Ore., is expected to arrive here on Friday to take up the dental practice with his partner Dr. Ross.

Mr. and Mrs. Auetin of Olds, came down on Monday and Mr. Auetin has commenced the practice of his profession in the office lately occupied by Mr. H. S. Patterson.

Rev. S. W. Gamble will preach next Sabbath, June 28th as follows: At Berlin schoolhouse at 11.30 a.m.; Bancroft at 3 p.m.; Hawkeye at 8 p.m. All are cordially invited.

Wednesday next is the 1st of July (Dominion Day) and a public holiday. All stores and Banks will be closed on that day. The post office will be open for a short time after the arrival of trains.

Geo. Hong Foo is going to build on the corner next to his fine new restaurant building. George says he is going to beat Studer's building which is 100 feet long by putting up his new building 100 feet one inch, which will make it the longest building in town. Dan Powell has the contract.

Olds and Didsbury baseball teams come together on the local diamond on Friday night. Game called at 8.45. Lacombe comes here on Wednesday next (Dominion Day). Game called at 2 o'clock.

Veterans of '85 Present Flag

A very unique and patriotic event took place on Friday evening at the schoolhouse when the veterans of '85 presented the local High School Cadet Corps with a very pretty flag. The flag is made of pure blue silk and bears, besides the Union Jack, the Canadian coat of arms, the inscription on the top in red silk letters the words Didsbury Cadet Corps No. 377, and below the motto "Canada for Ever."

The Cadets under command of Instructor G. O. Johnson were drawn up in line on the lawn to the east of the schoolhouse with the Citizens band on their right. The veterans, Messrs. W. Vogel and E. E. Fisher (Mr. S. R. Wood, who is also one of the veterans and donors of the flag, was unable to be present on account of sickness in his family) then advanced with the flag from the schoolhouse while the band played "The Girl I Left Behind Me" and Mr. Vogel presented the flag to the color bearer Pete Wood with his color guard composed of G. O. Johnson and Fred Osmond. Mr. Fisher made a short speech which was replied to by Instructor Johnson. The cadets then saluted the flag while the band played "Rule Britannia", and the school Union Jack was dipped three times in salute, after which "Last Post" was sounded. Cheers were then given for the King, the Veterans and Mr. Johnson. The cadets gave the spectators an exhibition of their drill and were dismissed.

The cadets made a very good showing in the evolutions but owing to a few of their officers being absent attending the ball game at Olds their instructor was handicapped to a great extent.

There was a fairly large attendance of spectators present who watched the proceedings with interest and no doubt carried away with them a better idea of what the drill is doing in learning the boys steadiness and discipline. The veterans, those men who gave of their best when Canada was in need of it, and who tramped this western country when it was nothing but a wilderness, who, no matter what the hardship encountered, gave of their strength that Canada might be saved, are to be commended on their loyalty and also on the spirit which prompted such a splendid gift to the boys.

Didsbury Put One Over Olds

(By our special correspondent)

In a hard fought game which was a marvelous combination of errors by both teams, the local boys nosed out a victory over Olds by a score of 5 to 4. Fumbles and costly errors by the locals were responsible for the runs scored by Olds, Dowell the local slab artist was decidedly off control at times and with the worst kind of bush league support behind him the Browns managed to get in the hinges at times when hits meant runs. The infield support at times were rank, and the errors when they came were costly. Burdick of the Browns held the locals scoreless up to the sixth, in the seventh the local boys managed to squeeze out three runs, poor support behind the Olds slab artist being responsible for the runs scored. The Browns managed to get runs across the plate in the 1st and 3rd but Dowell tightened up in the 4th, 5th and 6th and kept the Browns from scoring. In the last part of the 7th the score was 3 to 4 against the blues. Scheidt opened the 8th by scoring an easy grounder to Hanson who threw the runner out at 1st. Stark, the next man up, with two strikes against him slammed out a hot liner between 2nd and 3rd which should have been handled by Hanson but by a bone headed play by Gilmore the Olds and sacker who ran in front of Hanson both missed the ball allowing Stark to reach 1st. Great excitement prevailed when Whiteside next man up got to 1st by the 4 ball route, Stark stealing 2nd. Woods, next man up, made a short out field hit and reached 1st safely, Stark and Whiteside advancing a base; Liesemer fanned but during this period Stark with a great burst of speed stole home tying the score. Shantz connected with one of Burdicks slow ones and drove the pill into outer garden scoring Whiteside, winning the game for the locals. Although the Blues won, it was only by a fluke as our boys played worse than corner lot kids. The batting of the locals was simply of the rankest kind. Didsbury has the making of a winning team but it is up to Manager Stark to inject more ginger into the team and make several changes both in the infield and outer garden. More practice is required if the boys expect to be winners. Didsbury with a winning team will get good support from the local fans and will be a great advertisement for our hustling little burg.

Football News

Didsbury went down to defeat on Thursday night last when the local team went up against the warriors from Lacombe on the home grounds, the score being four to one in favor of Lacombe. The home team need a great deal more practice, their lack of combination work and wind seemed to tell against them. The Lacombe boys were much heavier than the locals and added to this they showed much better form than their opponents. With the assistance of some of the older football players in town to give the present team some good practice and a little change here and there in the line-up the locals should make a good team because the material is there.

Herbie Liesemer umpired the game and his decisions seemed to be satisfactory to both teams.

The Forest Fire

The Fire Fiend is out, magnificent sight, Stout hearts are quailing and faces grow white Darkly the smoke wreaths are circling high While banners of flame are tossing on high. The king of the forest writhes in the blast, Then bows to the earth, conquered at last.

Mirthless his glee as he crosses the dell As the cry of the lost torment'd in Hell. Louder his voice than the roar of the gale When cables are broken and anchors fail,

Wherever he turns with his scorching breath
He leaves a trail of ruin and death.

Resistless as Time he sweeps on his way,
Burning, destroying nor deigning to stay
Till forest and pasture are swept from his path
And nothing remains as food for his wrath.
Then sinking he dies 'neath a threat'ning cloud
The smoke for a pall, the ashes his shroud.

"Now, my child, just sit down by the fire and tell me what has happened."

Barbara did not go near the fire. She did not even look at it.

"I brought you this," she said; and she held the little black box in both hands and then put it on the table close to the lawyer. "I found it yesterday," he continued. "It explains itself. It is full of letters, full to the brim. If you will kindly read the letters, you and dear Mr. Sunningley, you will know what it means, and I would much more rather not speak about it. It is—it is one of the things that can only be repaired in one way."

"My dear child, what do you mean? Barbara, you must let me speak to you as a father. You have found a little, old, japanned, black box, in an out-of-the-corner of your father's study, and from your manner, my child, you seem to think that there is something dreadful in it. No doubt I can explain it to you, my dear. Of course I can, not a doubt of that. My dear little girl, there are secrets in all men's lives. Life, Barbara, although short, is also long. A vast deal can be crowded into an apparently uneventful life. Even one year in a life which numbers, say sixty years, can influence the whole of the rest of it. But we people of the world, dear Barbara, take no notice of these sort of things. Your father, dear fellow, was one of the best of men. You are surely not going to rake up what may have occurred in his youth?"

"There is nothing," said Barbara. "He—I mean, it—is all right, I mean there is nothing. Read the letters, and you will know what to do."

"Then take a comfortable seat by the fire and I will read two or three. Even one or two, read by my practised eye, will give me a clue to the whole of the mystery. What do you say, Barbara?—what are you trying to say, my dear? How dreadfully white and ill you look!"

"I am not ill, indeed I am not, and I have nothing to say, I mean—it is of no consequence—I mean that I need not say. The letters will tell you what to do. The money—the insurance money—and—even the money that my brother had—I don't want any of the money that my mother had—I don't want any of the money. The letters will explain. I have given you the little black box, and you will exactly understand what to do. Good-bye—I know you are in a hurry; your clerk said so, and—I have nothing more to say. You will act on the letters, won't you? You will be sure to do that?—good-bye."

"Barbara! Miss Chance! You must not run away in that fashion. It is unreasonable, it is wrong. Your father and I were such old friends, and Horace Sunningley was his cousin. I tell you what—you must come with me to my house in Wentworth street and spend the night there. My wife will be delighted to receive you, and so will my daughters. I shall read the letters quietly here and give you my opinion afterwards. My dear child—what? You won't come?"

Barbara shook her head. "Well, then, at what hour may I expect you tomorrow? I can't do anything without consulting you. You understand that?"

"I think you can, when you have read the letters. Good-bye."

Barbara turned swiftly. In a flash she had opened the door. Parkes was somewhat crippled with rheumatism. Beside the little Barbara, he was, as he expressed it, "nowhere." He followed her as far as his room door and heard her running downstairs. She ran very fast. He rang his bell with a sharp sound, and a clerk appeared.

"James, follow that young lady; go at once. If she has got into a cab, get into another and find out where she is staying. If she has not got into a cab, ask her to come back to me. Say, James, that I must see her. Don't delay a moment."

James, his face beaming with pleasure at this unexpected break in his day's routine of drudgery, flew downstairs after little Barbara. He came back presently.

"Well, where is she?"—Parkes' tone was anxious.

"I don't know, sir."

"I told you to follow her."

"When I got to the door, sir, she was nowhere to be seen. I inquired of the hall porter; he said he saw the young lady go out, but did not take any notice. There were no cabs on the stand, either, sir; he said that."

"James, you are a perfect fool. Now if I had gone—"

"I did my best, indeed, sir. The young lady had vanished."

"Well, don't wait now. Ask Mr. Sunningley to step in for a moment. Sunningley appeared."

CHAPTER III.

"Sunningley," said his partner, "here's a nice state of things!"

"Yes—what? You seem put out, Parkes?"

"And I have good reason to be. Barbara Chance has been to see me."

"Of course," answered Sunningley. "I noticed the dear child as I was going through the clerks' room to my own. I was about to speak to her, but an important client had just arrived; but I meant to come out again to give my little cousin a welcome. What's up with the child, Parkes?"

"I don't know. Here's a box—she has brought it to me—she discovered it in her father's library. She wants me to read the letters—the box is full of letters. The child has evidently fallen foul of some mare's nest, but the queer thing is that I couldn't induce her to stay. She left the box in my hands, gave me explicit directions according to what was expressed and desired in the letters, and would not promise to come back. The father left the poor child the miserable sum of one hundred a year, she will not touch a penny of it. She says that when I have read the contents of the box I shall know what it means. She is evidently not coming back. Sunningley, what is to be done?"

"It would be well to read the letters," said Sunningley. "they will probably explain."

"Oh, folly!" replied Parkes. "A dead-and-gone thing of that kind to rear its head like a snake at a crucial moment like the present, and a child like little Barbara to light upon it, a sensitive, high-principled child! I don't know what is to be done!"

"Have you no suspicion of what the letters contain?" asked the other man.

"Yes, and no. I think I may say yes, and no. There was a period, beyond doubt, ages ago, just before and after little Barbara was born, in the life of Humphrey Chance, which might have meant anything or nothing. He alluded to it once or twice when talking to me; but when I questioned him later he invariably turned the conversation. It happened years ago, and I really cannot tell beyond rumors. But even granted that in his long life there was something—something, we will say not quite straight, is it to affect little Barbara now that he is dead? He married his wife, I know, after a very short engagement, and she only lived until Barbara was a little over two years of age. Barbara must now be close on twenty. Whatever Humphrey Chance did wrong, it took place before he became engaged to Barbara's mother. Well, I don't know what to think; but surely little Barbara Chance ought not to be punished for a dead-and-gone crime."

"Oh, then you think there was a crime?"

"I can't tell, I am certain of nothing. I am dreadfully put out. I wish I could destroy these abominable letters without reading them. But she has put them into my hands as a trust; she has asked us both to read them."

"Well, of course, we will read

"Will you read them first, then?" said Parkes.

"If you like, yes; I will take the box home with me tonight and read the contents and let you know what I think in the morning."

"Thanks, Sunningley, thanks, you are a right good fellow. I'm glad you will do this, it will lift a decided weight off my mind."

"I will do it, naturally, for the child is my cousin."

"Of course, of course."

Sunningley took the little box; he left the room. Parkes went back to his own luxurious house in Weymouth street, but between him and repose there came that night the little face and the earnest voice of Barbara Chance. His wife was giving a dinner party of some magnitude; but the lawyer, as a rule, a most popular man, was distracted; he was, indeed, considerably off his guard. During dinner he did not talk with his usual animation, and people thought that he was not well, and remarked to each other that Parkes was beginning to break up. His wife also observed that something was wrong with him, but she was too wise a woman to speak about it, hoping that this, like many another cloud, would pass away in slumber during the night.

But if Parkes slept at all that night his sleep was disturbed by dreams, and those dreams had to do with Barbara and the black box. He felt very much inclined not to go near the offices the following morning; but that would be to act as a coward. Accordingly he went to his office at the usual hour, and, sitting down at his desk, began to examine the morning's post. His confidential clerk came in and out of the room, the girl who acted as typist appeared at the usual hour to take down directions for several letters which had to be written, went away, laden with work, and the confidential clerk came in again.

"Do you happen to know, sir, if Mr. Sunningley is coming today?"

"No," said Parkes, his heart leaping to his throat. "Hasn't he come yet?"

DID THE WORK

Grew Strong on Right Food

You can't grow strong by merely exercising. You must have food—the kind you can digest and assimilate.

Unless the food you eat is digested it adds to the burden the digestive organs have naturally to carry. This often means a nervous breakdown.

"About a year ago," writes an eastern lady, "I had quite a serious nervous breakdown caused, as I believed, by overwork and worry. I also suffered untold misery from dyspepsia."

"First I gave up my position, then I tried to find a remedy for my troubles, something that would make me well and strong, something to rest my tired stomach and build up my worn-out nerves and brain."

"I tried one kind of medicine, after another, but nothing seemed to help me."

"Finally a friend suggested change of food and recommended Grape-Nuts. With little or no faith in it, I tried a package. That was eight months ago and I have never been without it since."

"Grape-Nuts did the work. It helped me grow strong and well. Grape-Nuts put new life into me, built up my whole system and made another woman of me!"

Valor

Blowhard sat discussing upon valor to his ragged cronies.

"I," he blew, "fear no man who lives."

"But thou fearest me," rasped a midget vixen. "Home with thee!" Blue gilled, he followed his wife, the crowd loud jeering.

Within she turned to those who soon filled the doorway.

"Mark ye," she flew, "that it is I who fear no man."

"But thou fearest me," squeaked the littlest mouse in the county.

With a shriek of mad terror Dame Blowhard leaped chairward.

Whereupon the merry beggars held their aching sides.—Lippincott's.

Asthma Doesn't Wear Off Alone.

Do not make the mistake of waiting for asthma to wear away by itself. While you are waiting the disease is surely gathering a stronger foothold and you live in danger of stronger and yet stronger attacks. Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy taken early, will prevent incipient condition from becoming chronic and saves hours of awful suffering.

The Soft-Lookers

Figgs—Beggars shouldn't be choosers, you know.

Foggs—Wrong, my boy. If I were a beggar I'd choose the easy marks every time.

THE ONLY MEDICINE FOR TEETHING BABIES

Mrs. Alcide Charland, Ste. Sophie de Levard, Que., writes: "I am well satisfied with Baby's Own Tablets which I used for my little one during the teething period. I know of no other medicine to equal them." Mrs. Charland's testimony is that of thousands of other mothers. Once the Tablets are used a mother will give no other medicine to her little ones. The Tablets are guaranteed to be absolutely safe and are not only good during the teething period but cure constipation, colic, colds and simple fevers—in fact they cure all the minor ills of little ones. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

"Not quite," replied the truthful child. "She's just sick a-sofa."—Chicago Tribune

$100 REWARD, $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Address F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by all Druggists. 75c. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

"You're kinder to dumb animals than you are to me, your wife."

"Well, you try being dumb, and see how kind I'll be."

It is a Liver Pill—Many of the ailments that man has to contend with have their origin in a disordered liver, which is a delicate organ, peculiarly susceptible to the disturbances that come from irregular habits or lack of care in eating and drinking. This accounts for the great many liver regulators now pressed on the attention of sufferers. Of these there is none superior to Parlee's Vegetable Pills. Their operation though gentle is effective, and the most delicate can use them.

Husband (complainingly)—I dislike to have you owing little bills here, there and everywhere.

Wife (calmly)—All right, my dear. I'll make them larger.—Public Ledger.

SUFFERED EVERYTHING

For Years, Restored To Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Canadian women are continually writing us such letters as the two following, which are heartfelt expressions of gratitude for restored health:

Glanford Station, Ont.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and never found any medicine to compare with it. I had ulcers and falling of womb and doctors did me no good. I suffered dreadfully for years until I began taking your medicine. I also recommend it for nervousness and indigestion."—Mrs.

HENRY CLARK, Glanford Station, Ont.

Chesterville, Ont.—"I heard your medicines highly praised, and a year ago I began taking them for falling of womb and ovarian trouble."

"My left side pained me all the time and just before my periods which were irregular and painful it would be worse. To sit down caused me pain and suffering and I would be so nervous sometimes that I could not bear to see any one or hear any one speak. Little specks would float before my eyes and I was always constipated."

"I cannot say too much for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills, for there are no medicines like them. I have taken them and I recommend them to all women. You may publish this testimonial."—Mrs. STEPHEN J. MARTIN, Chesterville, Ontario, Canada.

THE THRILLING LIFE OF THE CAMERA MAN

TOURING THE WORLD AFTER PICTURES, HE MEETS WITH STRANGE ADVENTURES

The Travelling Commercial Photographer Must Have an Outfit Like an Explorer, and be Ready to Grapple With All Manner of Conditions During His Travels.

An interesting chap is the knight of the camera. He has nerves of steel. He must really be composed of ninety per cent. of the fine gold of courage alloyed with ten per cent. of the brass of audacity. Like the reporter, the camera man must know news. Also he must know how to get it. He must be at the right spot at the right time. Time and tide, volcano eruptions, and bayonet charges, too, wait for no man. And the new "knight" must often do the impossible.

He must be a linguist, for he often traverses strange lands. Travelling at the head of a considerable outfit, he must know how to handle men. Penetrating often where he is not wanted, he must be a diplomat and he must know how to make himself persona grata.

During the Russo-Japanese war a famous photographer, making his way to the firing line, was halted by a minor Japanese official. His credentials availed him nothing. "Tell General Nogi," said the photographer, "the commander-in-chief sent back word, 'let him go anywhere he wants to go.'" That photographer had seen to it that he was "solid" with the great Japanese commander.

The travelling commercial photographer who gathers for us likenesses of foreign parts and strange events, must have an outfit like an explorer. If he is going to the far north he must have the dog-train equipment of a Pole-hunter. Camels will carry him in Asia, and elephants in India. In Africa he must depend upon a caravan of native porters.

On one occasion Mr. H. G. Ponting climbed the Japanese mountain Asama-Yama to get a picture of its crater. His helper stood waiting with a second camera when he advanced to the edge of the volcano's mouth. Suddenly an eruption occurred, and the assistant, as quick as lightning, darted, and was able to secure a magnificent picture.

Probably no war photographer ever had a more terrible experience than that which befell Mr. Willie. He accompanied the Boer armies during their war with England, as representative of a Dutch newspaper. The thrilling pictures were to be had at the front of the battle line; so, to get into closer touch with events, Mr. Willie fought as a Boer soldier. Six of his front teeth were knocked out—one by a bayonet thrust, another by a blow from a musket butt and the others when, in charging on horseback, he was thrown headlong on his face. On four occasions he was shot. Once he lay, unconscious on a battlefield for sixteen hours. For fourteen weeks he was carried about in a Boer ambulance. He lost eighty-two pounds in weight. But all the time when possible, he was taking or developing photographs.

The camera men, sighing like Alexander, for more worlds to conquer have turned their attention to the jungle. Mr. C. G. Schillings, the German scientist, is celebrated among animal photographers. He was once charged by a herd of twenty-five elephants. He managed to kill the leading animal, and so turned the herd. Had they continued their charge nothing could have saved him. On another occasion Mr. Schillings was swamped in an African river, close to a pool frequented by alligators. His comrades on the bank at once opened fire on the alligators, while others formed a human chain and drew him ashore. On still another occasion two rhinoceroses scented Mr. Schillings while he was taking their picture. They charged together. Mr. Schillings grabbed a gun and dropped both rhinoceroses, but they were up again and after him with astonishing agility. He dodged behind a thorn bush, but one animal went each way. The photographer was caught between them. Just as they were on him they collapsed.

During an international yacht race he once tried to get a head-on picture of the Valkyrie. The big yacht completely shut off the wind from his little twenty-foot sloop, and there he was becalmed under the very prow of the on-rushing racer. He was capsized, and barely escaped with his life. On another occasion his boat was crushed by the impact of a diver whose armour had been pumped too full of air by an inexperienced helper, and who shot upward through the water with the force of a torpedo. Once a dummy torpedo sent Mr. Symonds' boat to the bottom during some naval manoeuvres. On one occasion this daring photographer was caught at the bottom of the sea in a sunken submarine. Once he was nearly thrown from the fighting top of a warship by a sudden lurch of that vessel. A barge on which he was working was sheared in half by a speeding torpedo boat.—Montreal Star.

CHANNEL TUNNEL WANTED

Over a Million Passengers by Boat Every Year

It is estimated that some 1,200,000 passengers travel annually between Great Britain and the continent by the various routes, and of these the great majority prefer the shortest sea passages, between Dover and Calais and Folkestone and Boulogne. The popularity of these routes is seen from the figures, which show a rise from 508,106 for 1903 to 689,779 for 1908, and to 840,574 for last year. These returns indicate substantial progress, but authorities claim that had there been a channel tunnel the passenger movement between England and France would have shown much more striking developments. Meanwhile, until the tunnel has been constructed, the South-eastern and Chatham companies are keeping pace with the public demands for facilities. They have now six services daily each way between Paris and London, with extra trains and steamers for bank holiday times, and at the end of last year owned seven steamers of 54,200 indicated horsepower and 3,006 tons registered tonnage, with eight steamboats of 250 tons net and under. The company has also being built a new steamer on the same lines as the Engadine and the Riviera, the two newest boats in the company's service, which are great successes. The new boat will be turbine-driven, with three shafts and of 1,674 tons register, a speed of 22 knots, and capable of carrying 1,318 passengers.

Superintendent for B.C.

British Columbia has chosen a new superintendent of agricultural education. It is Mr. J. W. Gibson, who is now science master and superintendent of the school garden at the Ottawa Normal school. Mr. Gibson carries a wide experience and training to help him in the duties of his new post. He is a native of Osgoode township, Carleton county, and passed his high school examinations at Kemptville, Ontario. After teaching for a time, he passed the Ottawa Normal school, and subsequently became identified with the establishment of the school gardens of Carleton county, which were conducted under the Macdonald fund. These were at Carp, Galt, Richmond, and North Gower. Mr. Gibson is an M.A., of Queen's university, medalist in botany and animal biology, and has taken courses pertaining to his specialty—the teaching of agriculture—in New York State College of Agriculture, Teachers' College, Columbia University, New York, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, and Clark University, Worcester, Massachusetts. Mr. Gibson, for the past five years, has been in his present position. Previous to that he was travelling instructor in agricultural school gardens, under the Macdonald rural schools movement. He is a capable and popular teacher, and an earnest and sincere worker in the cause he has espoused. He begins his new work in British Columbia, July 1, of the present year.

Mr. Gibson's appointment in British Columbia is one of the results of the distribution of the various provincial shares of the Dominion government grant under the agricultural instruction act.—F.W.D., in Montreal Herald.

Get Ready for the Fair

Now is the time to commence getting exhibits ready for the fair. Farmers too often leave everything to chance. If their gardens do well, they at the last moment decide on showing some vegetables. If a calf, lamb, or colt does well it is taken to the show. This is not making the best of the farm. Every farmer should have in his mind at all times the production of the best, yes, prize vegetables, prize calves, lambs, pigs and colts.

Extra cultivation, abundance of well rotted manure, the best seed procurable, and then continuous cultivation, thinning, weeding and hoeing, will bring results in the garden. Clean quarters, good feed and regular feeding will tell on young stock. Handling of colts and calves, with careful brushing, will make them ready for the show ring. An untrained colt never shows well. A growthy, clean, sappy calf always commands attention.

No awkward, rough looking, ill fed and dirty colt or calf ever took a first prize.

A well fed, well groomed and well handled colt or calf is always a credit to the owner, prize or no prize.

Ultra Violet Rays Succeed

The Milan correspondent of the London Daily Chronicle records further remarkable successes which the young Italian engineer Giulio Ulivi has achieved with the ultra-violet rays. Ulivi last year demonstrated the explosive power of these rays in the presence of experts of the British admiralty after he had experimented in France. Ulivi then claimed that he had proven the efficacy of his invention to fire explosives at a distance of several miles, but the experts viewed his demonstrations coldly.

A Souvenir

In the course of some road making on the property of the Dallas road, formerly belonging to Senator Macdonald, and at the foot of a large oak tree, a round shot weighing two pounds was dug up. It is supposed to be a souvenir of the old days of Spanish occupation. Brass guns were then in use by the Spaniards.—Victoria Colonist.

INTERNATIONAL POSTAL RATES TO BE LOWERED

GENERAL RATE OF THREE CENTS FOR LETTER POSTAGE TO BE ESTABLISHED

The Triennial Conference of Postal Union to be Held in September to Adopt the New Rate, According to Present Plans.

The London Standard declares the triennial conference of the postal union in September next will establish an international rate of three cents for letter postage. Some of the nations advocate the adoption of world penny postage, but the majority favor the three cents compromise.

Thanks to the earnest advocacy of Sir John Henniker Heaton, penny postal exists throughout the British empire, and there is penny postage between Great Britain and the United States, but the letter rate between Britain and France remains at five cents.

King George is asserted to be a convinced adherent of world penny postage, and is said to have been grievously disappointed that he was not able, when he recently visited France, to announce that penny postage had been adopted and a new link formed in the entente cordiale.

Sir John Henniker Heaton insistently urged the British postmaster-general to adopt the Anglo-French penny postage early enough to enable the king to make the announcement when in Paris, but Mr. Hobhouse, the present postmaster-general, deferred his decision until the postal union conference.

Australia is known to favor penny postage, but the majority of countries have decided upon the three cent rate commencing in 1915. Sir John Henniker Heaton, who is the accredited representative of the Australian commonwealth to the postal union conference, declines to attend in view of the impossibility of counteracting the opposition of official representatives of other governments.

He recalls that prior to the adoption of the Anglo-American penny postage, he furnished guarantees by Andrew Carnegie and John W. Wamaker against loss, but these were returned by the British government. He adds that he has now furnished guarantees against loss by world penny postage from "gentlemen whose financial stability is recognized in every country in Europe." The government has, however, again returned the guarantee but refused the penny post.

Sir John, who is 65 years ago, is still hopeful of living to see his ideal world penny postal plus universal penny a word telegrams.

Man-Eating Fish of the Brazils

Theodore Roosevelt, in an article entitled "A Hunter-Naturalist in the Brazilian Wilderness," in Scribner's magazine, tells us of the deadly piranhas, the fish-cannibals. They do not, however, eat their own kind, when they can obtain the flesh of men.

When dead piranhas, and even when mortally injured piranhas, with the blood flowing, were thrown in among the ravenous living, they were left unmolested. Moreover, splashing and a commotion in the water attracted the piranhas, whereas they rarely attacked anything that was motionless unless it was bloody. Dead birds and mammals, thrown whole and unskinned into the water were permitted to float unmolested, whereas the skinned carcass of a good-sized monkey was at once seized, pulled under the water and completely devoured by the blood-crazed fish.

One of the party who had dropped something of value waded in after it to above the knees, but went very slowly and quietly, avoiding every possibility of disturbance, and not venturing to put his hands into the water. But nobody could bathe, and even the slightest disturbance in the water, such as that made by scrubbing the hands vigorously with soap, immediately attracted the attention of the savage little creatures, who darted to the place, evidently hoping to find some animal in difficulties.

Once, while some Indians were attempting to launch a boat, and were making a great commotion in the water, a piranha attacked a naked Indian who belonged to the party and mutilated him as he struggled and splashed, waist-deep in the stream. Men not making a splashing and struggling are rarely attacked; but if one is attacked by any chance, the blood in the water maddens the piranhas, and they assail the man with frightful ferocity.

NO MORE MISUNDERSTANDING

Sub-Committee to Express Senate's Interpretation of Safety at Sea Conference

The United States senate foreign relations committee has decided that in future there should be no chance of a misunderstanding over treaties to which the United States is a party. A sub-committee was named to draw up resolutions expressing the senate's interpretation of the convention drafted by the recent safety at sea conference at London.

It was understood that the controversy over the Hay-Pauncefote treaty and Panama canal tolls led to the committee's action.

TIMBER ROYALTIES

Profit-sharing Between Government and Licensee

The present Timber Royalty act of British Columbia is chiefly significant in all timber royalties, subsequent to January 1, 1920, on the sale value of the timber cut, over and above an arbitrarily fixed price of $15 per thousand feet board measure. The percentage taken by the government of this prospective value-increase will be at first 25 per cent., gradually rising to 40 per cent. in the succeeding 25 years.

This is no new principle, for as early as 1889 the Dominion government required from holders of timber limits in western Canada a royalty of 5 per cent. of the total sale value of the lumber cut, which value was to be based on the average price obtaining during the three months preceding the sale. But at that time the price of lumber was not sufficiently high to bring in any very large revenue on this percentage basis, so in 1898 the stumpage dues were changed to the fixed rate of 50 cents per thousand feet, board measure, which is the rate at present. Although the retention of the percentage royalty would have secured larger returns from this source with the steadily rising lumber prices, yet the principle of selling the timber at a widely advertised public auction ensures the obtaining, through the additional bonus offered, practically the same price for the timber without the former inconvenience of constantly adjusting the stumpage dues.

As the competitive sale of timber by means of the bonus system is common throughout Canada, there is little likelihood that the government does not secure a fair share of the present value of the timber sold, and by reserving the right to alter the stumpage dues as the price of lumber increases, a share in its future value is also insured.

The Daylight Saving Idea

The "fast time" idea is spreading throughout the west with greater rapidity even than was to be expected. People naturally are conservative about such things as making changes in the time, yet several towns have adopted daylight saving already and others are discussing it.

Calgary, for one instance, has taken the idea up, and action is possible shortly.

Weyburn, Sask., has subscribed almost unanimously to a petition for the establishment of fast time there. The petition which will be presented to the city council bears the signature of over 100 business men of that city, and a great many other residents. There has been practically no opposition to the plan, the feasibility and desirability of which no one there doubts after Regina's successful experiment.

Melfort, Sask., has likewise taken up the idea, and the change has already gone into effect there.

Regina is experiencing the real benefits of the plan these days and will continue to do so throughout the summer. For a time, of course, the weather was disagreeable, and the extra hour of daylight did not make any great difference. But now with the fine weather, the long evening daylight hours are appreciated to the full. For those interested in baseball, as most of us are the change will prove most desirable, as was shown pretty conclusively recently.—Province.

COL. ROOSEVELT REPLIES

Says British Geographer Has Paid His Greatest Possible Tribute

Colonel Theodore Roosevelt has replied to Sir Clements Markham's criticism of his discovery of an unknown river in Brazil, by saying that the British geographer had unconsciously paid the greatest possible tribute to what he had done. He declared the best existing maps to be utterly wrong in regard to all this part of South America, and said that they made mistakes as to the courses of the Cypanara and Juruna affluents.

The mountains given on the maps were, according to the colonel, mostly imaginary. He said that while his party had embarked on a mountain, the maps indicated a valley.

The lower part of the river he had explored, said the colonel, had long been known to rubber gatherers under the name of the Arnonan, and the upper part as the Castanho, but it had not been mapped, while the existence of the river he had descended was not hinted at in Bartholomew's map.

Sins of Smart Set Facing Exposure

Rev. Father Bernard Vaughan announces that he is going to undertake a campaign this summer against the night clubs with a special view to exposing the sins of the smart set who resort to these clubs after the cafes and hotels are closed by law and keep up revelry until early morning. The celebrated preacher says he will denounce the evil, not only because of its own inherent wickedness, but also because it is an unjust discrimination against the poorer classes.

Limit Trade Disputes

At a meeting of the trades protection societies, held in London, the great need was emphasized for the creation of machinery to limit trade disputes. It was pointed out that in 1913 the trade disputes total double the average of preceding years, and involved a loss of over 11,000,000 working days.

LATE DUKE OF ARGYLL A FRIEND OF CANADA

HE DISPLAYED MARKED SKILL AND TACT AS GOVERNOR-GENERAL OF CANADA

The Duke Remained a Devoted Friend of Canada All His Life—Instrumental in Creating Interest in Emigration to Canada.

The Duke of Argyll, who died recently after a short illness, is the second ex-governor-general of Canada to pass away in the present year. His term of service from 1878 to 1883 spent in the Dominion was one which saw the dawn of a great era of prosperity.

It is said that when Lord Beaconsfield first proposed the appointment, the Duke of Argyll expressed hesitation as to being insufficiently equipped to assume the office. Queen Victoria, however, pressed him to accept, with the result that he became one of the best and most popular of governors-general.

The eldest son of the eighth Duke of Argyll, a peer with a reputation in politics, science and literature, and a daughter of the second Duke of Sutherland, the Duke was born at Stafford House in London, on Aug. 6th, 1845. Until he was fifty-five he was known as the Marquis of Lorne. In his education he combined in turn the schools and universities of Scotland and England—Edinburgh Academy and Eton, St. Andrew's and Trinity College, Cambridge.

In 1868, he entered parliament as Liberal member for Argyllshire, which he represented for ten years, during four of which he was private secretary to his father, the Secretary of State for India, in Gladstone's first ministry.

He married the Princess Louise, fourth daughter of Queen Victoria, on March 21, 1871. The marriage ceremony was performed in St. George's Chapel, Windsor, by the Bishop of London, assisted by the Bishops of Winchester, Oxford and Worcester. He was created a Knight of the Thistle in 1872. He was created a Knight Grand Cross of the Order of St. Michael and George.

In 1878 he was appointed governor-general of Canada. "I believe you have abilities," said Disraeli, in making the appointment. At first, Queen Victoria was far from enthusiastic about it, but Disraeli's arguments prevailed. "The Queen, when I first spoke of it," Disraeli explained to the Marquis, "thought that she would not like her daughter to be so far, but on considering that Canada is now only ten days off and that you might come home for a time every year, and after sleeping over it, she was quite in favor of the proposal."

The appointment was hailed with satisfaction in Canada and the young governor-general—he was then only thirty-three—entered upon his term of office with the hearts of the people strongly prepossessed in his favor. The Marquis held the post five years, and proved himself a governor-general of the greatest skill and tact. Succeeding a man of the ability and eloquence of Lord Dufferin, his task was one of difficulty but he accomplished it with distinction to himself and profit to the Dominion.

During his occupation of Rideau Hall the Marquis and His Royal Consort won thoroughly the esteem and affection of all classes of the Canadian people. The gracious and dignified presence of the Princess Louise went far to bring success to the five happy years they spent in the Dominion.

While governor-general, the Marquis founded the Royal Society of Canada for the promotion of literature and science within the Dominion, and in conjunction with the Princess Louise, he founded the Royal Canadian Academy of Art.

The Duke remained a devoted friend of Canada all his life, and in many ways he worked to advance the interests of the Dominion. To Canadians visiting Great Britain he extended many courtesies. He always expressed his firm conviction that British people leaving the old home could find no better place in the world to go to than Canada. In connection with emigration it is interesting to note that it was due to him that information on this subject is to be obtained at every post office in the United Kingdom. It was some time before he could induce the British government to take the matter up.

JAPAN TO INCREASE DEFENSES

Policy of New Cabinet Provides For Drastic Changes to Develop Commerce

An increase of Japanese national defenses is promised in the declaration of the policy issued by the new cabinet under the leadership of Count Shigenobu Okuma. The necessity is emphasized of overcoming by national economy, the financial burdens resulting from the war with Russia. Reduction of the national loans and concentration of effort on the development of commerce and industry are also part of the programme.

Terrible Mine Disaster

The worst mining disaster that has ever occurred in Canada took place on Friday morning last at the Hillcrest collieries, a few miles east of Frank, on the Crow's Nest pass, when nearly 200 miners here met a sudden death. So far it is not known what caused the explosion.

The funeral of 150 of the victims was held on Sunday last and the scenes of sorrow and anguish of the sorrowing relatives and children was indescribable. The company who own the mines have headquarters in Montreal and everything possible will be done by them to alleviate the distress caused by the accident.

The Calgary Exhi- bition

Visitors to the Calgary fair this year will be treated to one of the best arranged list of attractions which this exhibition has ever presented. Every act before the grandstand will be a headliner, and something not usually seen even in the high class performances. The Flying Levans thrill the spectators with their perilous performances and mid air somersaults. Mlle Celeste rules supreme in a huge steel arena over a troupe of treacherous leopards. Major Fred A. Bennett presents picturesque stilt walking and dancing which as an all round entertainment has few equals. Then there are the Florence Hursley acrobats, the riding Castellas and Frederick DoBell who goes the sensational limit in spectacular high-wire work. The fireworks will include a set piece commemorating the 100 years of peace.
The thousands of visitors to the fair every year have never listened to a more magnificent musical programme.
The following bands have been engaged: The Winnipeg Citizens' Band,

The Calgary Citizens' Band, 103rd Regiment Band and the Lethbridge City Band. A special feature of the evening programme on each day of the fair will be the military tattoo in which four bands will take part with a total of 125 musicians. This year the combined band will contain twenty five more instruments than last year, and the music will unquestionably be the best ever presented in Western Canada. On Citizens' Day, Friday, July 3rd, the Calgary Piper's Band will add to the programme, and Miss Miquelon will perform one of her inimitable Caledonian dances.

Haffner--Scheidt

The reception given by the Scheidt brothers and sisters in honor of the marriage of their sister Augusta to Mr. John Haffner of Kulm, N. D., which took place at the Scheidt home on June 17th was one of the most enjoyable and homelike events of its kind that has been our privilege to attend.

The wedding took place at 7 p. m. in the presence of the members of the family only. The Rev. Gierring of Calgary, tying the same old knot which has brought so much joy to others. At 8 o'clock, the hour the guests were bidden to arrive, we found the entire family looking as if they were satisfied with the proceedings so far. We were received by Walter and his sister Lydia, by whom we were presented to the bride and groom after which each was made acquainted with the others and every effort was made that all should enjoy themselves.

The bride was gown in white crepe with over dress of shadow lace and would wear no flowers but the simple ones plucked from their own home garden. She looked very charming to us and the groom seemed to hold the same opinion.
He is a fine specimen of the Northern young man and looks qualified to take his place in life with full knowledge of its responsibilities.

While all were merrily chatting we were treated to a surprise by a burst of music from the Didsbury band, which a the request of Mr. Scheidt had quietly assembled in the yard. This was a success and brought the company to their feet with an Oh!! After rendering a number of selections the band was treated to a bountiful lunch and cigars, and departed wishing the bride and groom long life and happiness. Then the real reception began consisting of music and readings rendered by the members of the family. A fine lunch was served followed by violin and piano music by Mr. Frank Henderson and Miss Lydia Scheidt which all enjoyed. This was interspersed by more readings by Miss Huldah Scheidt that proved her ability and pleased everyone. The young couple received a large number of beautiful presents.

We stayed until well towards morning when someone suggested that it might look better to go home before breakfast, to which we reluctantly consented after wishing the bride and groom a long life of success and happiness. A GUEST

The use of good paint around the town or country home is a great economy.
The cost of paint to protect your buildings against the ravages of the weather, is small compared with the expense of repairs, soon necessary on unpainted houses, barns, or other buildings.

For your buildings use Sherwin-Williams Paint (Prepared) SWP. SWP is made of pure lead, pure zinc, pure linseed oil and the necessary coloring pigments and driers. These are put together in correct proportions, according to a tested scientific formula, proven best by forty years experience, and are mixed and ground by special machinery. The result is a smooth, far spreading paint, even in color and giving a painted finish of great durability which protects your buildings for the longest possible time.

For buggies, automobiles, porch furniture, boats, canoes and other surfaces subject to severe usage, S-W Buggy Paint gives longest wear and looks best.

For shingle roofs and sidings use S-W Creosote Shingle Stain which protects and beautifies these surfaces.

For buildings of rough lumber, fences, work shops, etc., use S-W Creosote Paint, a satisfactory paint at an economical price, for such work.

For wagons, farm implements, garden tools, etc., use S-W Wagon Paint. It keeps the wood from checking and cracking and the metal parts from rusting.

Miller's Worm Powders do not need the after-help of castor oil or any purgative to complete their thoroughness, because they are thorough in themselves. One dose of them, and they will be found palatable by all children, will end the worm trouble by making the stomach and bowels untenable to the parasites. And not only this, but the powders will be certain to exert most beneficial influences in the digestive organs.

A Bit of Sarcasm
"The late Dr. Morgan Dix," said a clergyman of New York, "had a droll way of lightening grave subjects with little humorous asides. Once I heard him addressing a graduating class at a medical school. He began in this way:
"Physiologists tell us, gentlemen, that the older a man grows the smaller his brain becomes. This explains why the old man knows nothing and the young one everything."

Flying Fish
Interesting are the habits of the flying fish, that queer denizen of the sea found principally in the region of the trade winds. "Does it rise from the sea like a bird?" you ask. No. It shoots out of the waves like an arrow and with outspreading wings sails on the wind in graceful curves, rising sometimes, one might say, to the height of fifteen feet, but not often so high, and then, lowering, it again touches the crest of a wave and renews its flight. This operation may be repeated till it covers a distance, say, of 500 yards in the case of the stoutest on the wing, though very often not half the distance is covered. A ship sailing through the trade winds will often be visited on dark nights by flying fish, which hit the sails or rigging and fall on deck, where, of course, they soon give up life.—St. Nicholas.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food
as a Spring Tonic

We have on file thousands of letters telling of similar cures by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Skeptics are invited to write to Mrs. Scarbo for confirmation of her cure.

Mrs. Jules Scarbo, Moulinette, Stormont Co., Ont., writes:—
"I think it is my duty to write and let you know the great benefit I received from taking Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. Early last fall I became greatly run down, could scarcely eat anything and could not sleep at night. The least sound would make me start and I was so nervous I could hardly bear to have anyone talk to me. I tried many medicines but none helped me and I was in this extremely nervous condition for five months.
"I read in the almanac about Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and bought 3 boxes from Mr. Armstrong, druggist at Mille Roches. Before completing the first box I felt the benefit and now believe the cure to be thorough and complete. I am feeling fine and eat and sleep well, thanks to the wonderful good, accomplished by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I wish everybody troubled as I was knew of this grand medicine, which is so quick in action and so permanent in results. It will always have my praise."

You can avoid the feelings of fatigue and depression which make spring so dreaded by very many who are not in robust health. Sleeplessness, irritability, indigestion and headaches soon disappear when you increase the vitality of the mind and body by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. 50 cents a box, 6 for $2.50, all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto. Write for free booklet on the "Nerves."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is the greatest of spring restoratives, because it actually forms new, red corpuscles in the blood.

An assault case was heard by Magistrates Peterson and Atkins on Monday last. The trouble arose over some money matters between E. E. Fisher and C. Bloxham and the former tried to settle the question by physical force which caused Bloxham to lay a charge of assault. Fisher was fined $5 and costs and was advised by Magistrate Peterson that he had a good case for the civil court.

A very pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mrs. W. H. Stark on Thursday evening June 18th, the occasion being a "Miscellaneous Shower" in honor of Miss Anna C. Gray. There were a large number of ladies present which testified to the great esteem which is felt for her in Didsbury where she has resided for some years. Miss Gray was the recipient of many beautiful and useful gifts, some coming from Red Deer and other outside points. After the shower of gifts refreshments were served and a social time was spent by those present.

A Getting Together of the East and the West

One more advance in the effort to arrive at an understanding between the Canadian Manufacturers' association and the agriculturists of Western Canada was made by the former last week, when a resolution was passed at the annual convention of manufacturers favoring the holding of regular conferences between representatives of Canada's two most important industries.

The effect of this resolution, and the spirit behind such a move, is worthy of more than passing notice, and is a sign which will be heartily welcomed within every city, town and village in the West.

Too long have these two elements in Canada's commercial life worked at cross purposes, and quite unfortunate has been the ever increasing gap which has been created between the two, chiefly because of extremists within both camps, aided by the questionable purposes of partisan newspapers.

With a better understanding will come an insight of the value of harmony and co-operation between the two; and with the latter there will naturally follow such a union of forces that will have a material effect upon the future prosperity of Canada.

An unfortunate imaginary dividing line between the East and the West is about to be wiped out. The day of the demagogue and autocrat is about over. We of the West and they of the East are about to come together, meet upon common ground, talk over great national problems, not from the narrow sectional viewpoint, but from the broad consideration of the country's good. For which we may all express gratitude. The work may be slow and hindered at first, and the results may appear small; but the signs are hopeful and the ultimate ending can scarcely be doubted.—News Telegram

RELIANCE OILS LTD.

WHY?

Here are sound reasons why Reliance Oils Ltd., (non personal liability) is the safest and best company to invest with today.

The company is composed of Dependable Edmonton business men who guarantee in their prospectus to give you a square deal. The company covers both the Nakumun and Okotoks fields. All moneys will be used for immediate drilling and purchasing new leases—nothing else. No promotion stock. No paid officers.

These facts explain why three issues of stock have been sold in the last week. The fourth at 25c PER SHARE (par $1.00) is now selling fast.
